STONE RIDGE.

Stone Ridge, Aug. 15.—Plans are going on for the clambake to be held on the Reformed Church grounds on Friday evening, August 31. The Ladies' Aid Society expects to hold a sale of useful and fancy articles at the same time.

Regular Grange meeting on Monday evening, August 20. The lecturer's hour will be in charge of the officers.

The painters expect to finish painting the interior of the Reformed Church this week.

Ferry Knapp gave a very interesting talk in the M. E. Church last Sunday morning. His subject was "Our Late President, Warren G. Harding."

THE OFFICE CAT

By James

Overheard from a high school graduate: "Thank goodness my school days are over, and I don't have to go up to the library every week and read that old Literary Digest."

A Flyaway Affair—A fly and a flea in a flue were imprisoned. So what could they do?

The Near East reminds us of near beer. It isn't nearly so exciting as it sounds.

The maniac behind bars is a sad sight; but the one behind a steering wheel is even more depressing.

The girl on Broadway says that when she was in England she saw most every point of interest except the place where they drop their H's.

Prof. C. C. Davis will play a cornet solo "The Holy City" at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Trinity Methodist Church, after which the choir will sing, "Hail, Mercy, O God," according to Frank E. Ryerson, pastor.—Topeka Capital.

The young man who flies high doesn't stop to worry about where he is going to light.

You never realize how high silk stockings are until you see a girl in a bathing suit.

Hints to the Lovelorn: If you want to get by with a girl, just go up to her on the street and cheerily say, "Well, how's my girl this morning?" If she answers, "Just fine," you must then say, "Oh, have you seen her this morning?" This will bring results.

Suspense.

He was my friend—and now he's gone away.
Devoutly do I pray for his return.
I fain would follow but I must needs stay;

Meantime his fate doth cause much grave concern.
He was my friend, he took my hand and said,
That he'd be back in just a little while;

Then out he walked with firm and stately tread,
I watched him go and tried to force a smile.

Now his return I'm fondly waiting for,
I'll count each minute till he doth arrive.

Don't get the notion that he's gone afar—
I sent him 'cross the street to change a five.

Did you ever notice how the eagle on the money flies when you try to feather your nest.

Even now it isn't polite to smoke before luncheon. At any rate, not before they light up.

A scientist says human toes will disappear within the next 2,000 years. What will the chiropodists do then, poor things?

"Mother, won't you please speak to baby. He's sitting on the fly paper, and there's a lot of flies waiting to get on."

If we didn't have holidays once in a while, we couldn't appreciate the restfulness of hard work.

ROSENDALE.
Rosedale, Aug. 15.—The community memorial service held in All Saints' Episcopal Church, Rosendale, on Friday in honor of President Harding was attended by a large congregation.

The Rev. James G. Cameron, read the burial service, the verses and the Lord's Prayer were recited. The ninety-third Psalm, "Lord, thou hast been our refuge from one generation to another," was solemnly chanted.

The favorite hymns of the president, "Lead, Kindly Light," and "Nearer My God to Thee" in which all joined, were sung. The solo, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," was sung by Mrs. Joseph Mooney, which was composed and sung at President McKinley's funeral. The pastor paid a high tribute to President Harding, on his fine personality and character.

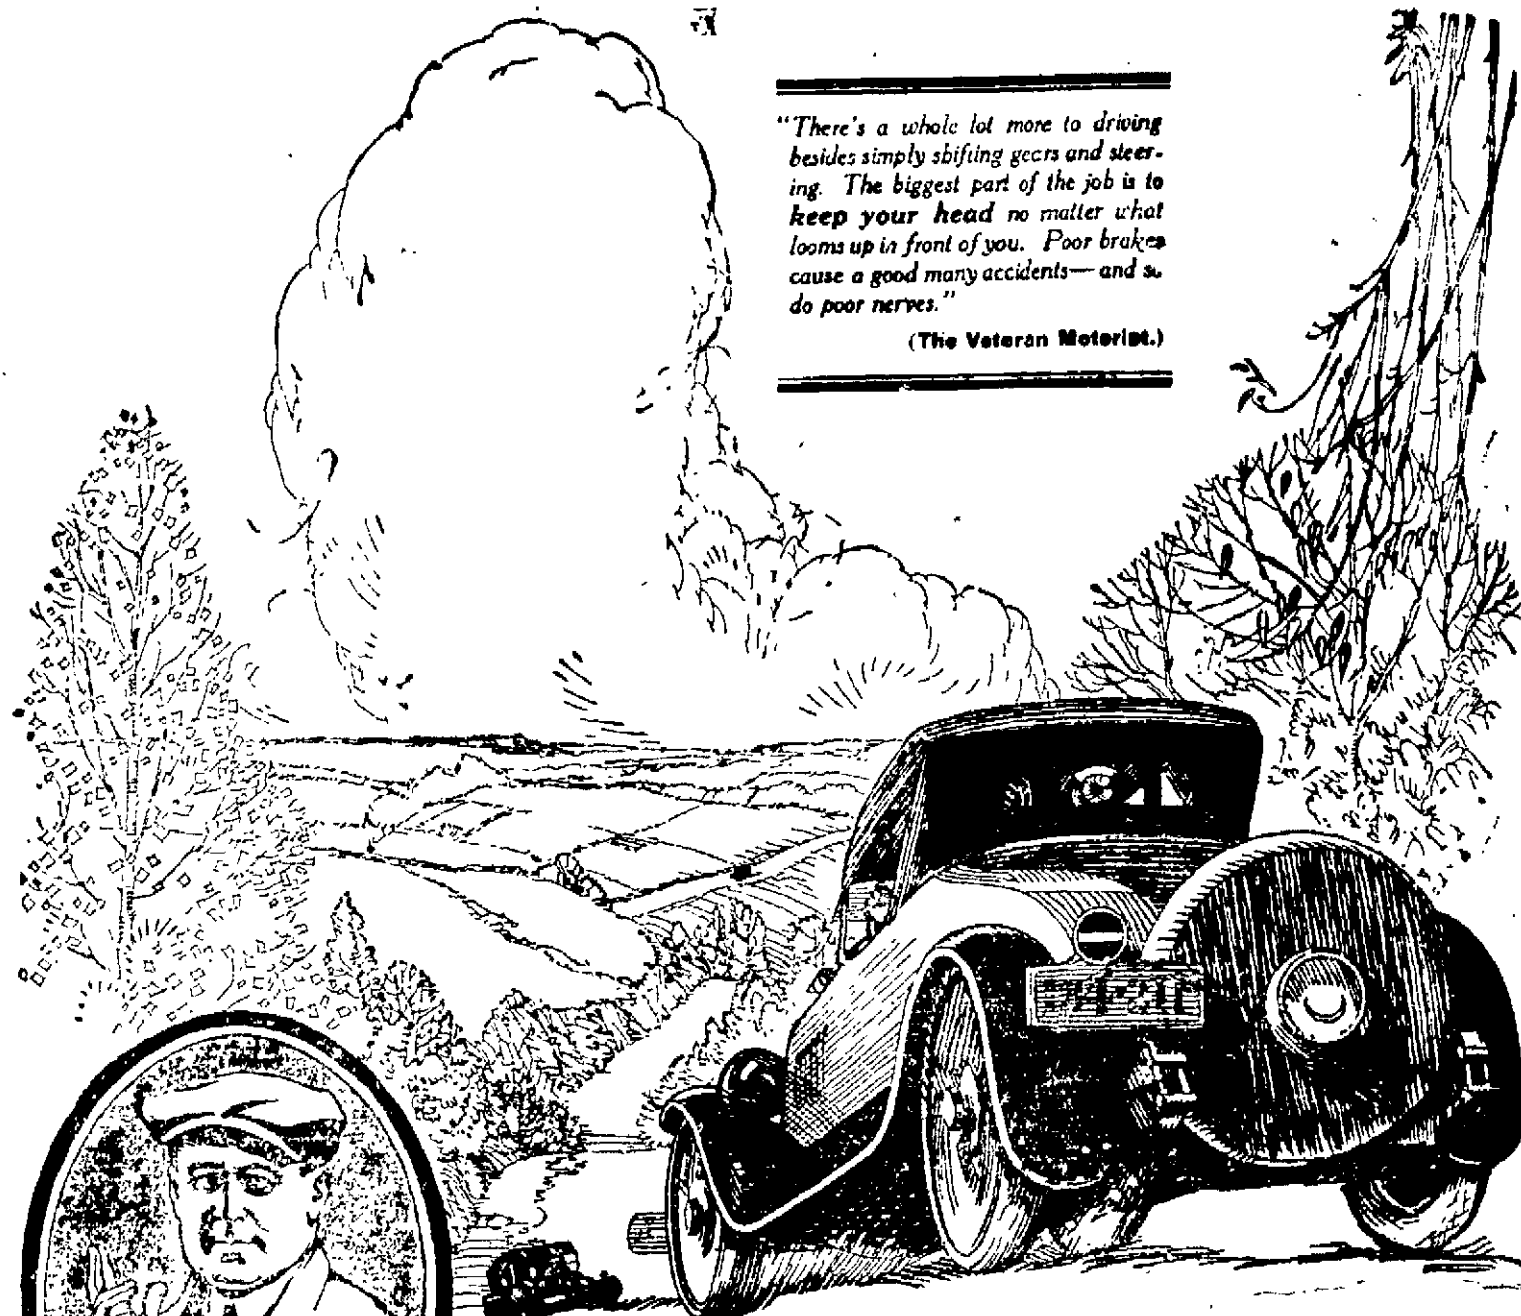

The service closed with the recessional hymn, "God Bless Our Native Land," after which the congregation stood in silent prayer for some minutes. The benediction was then pronounced the audience passing out quietly as the organ pealed the funeral march.

"There's a whole lot more to driving besides simply shifting gears and steering. The biggest part of the job is to keep your head no matter what looms up in front of you. Poor brakes cause a good many accidents—and so do poor nerves."

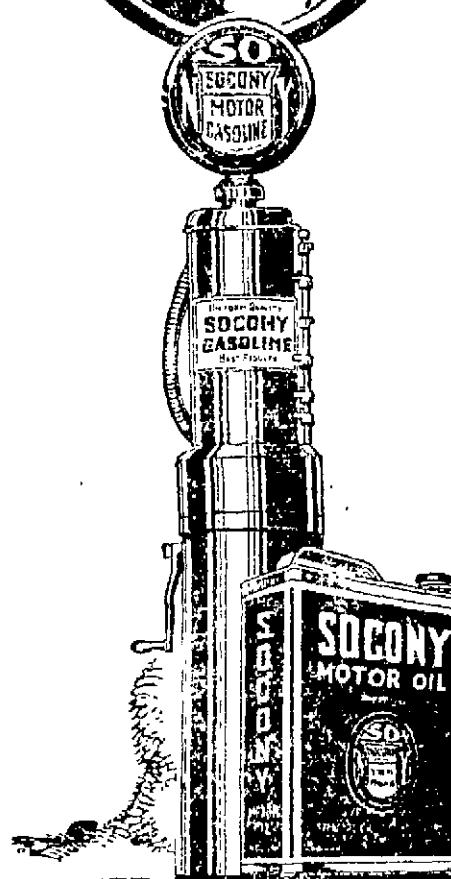

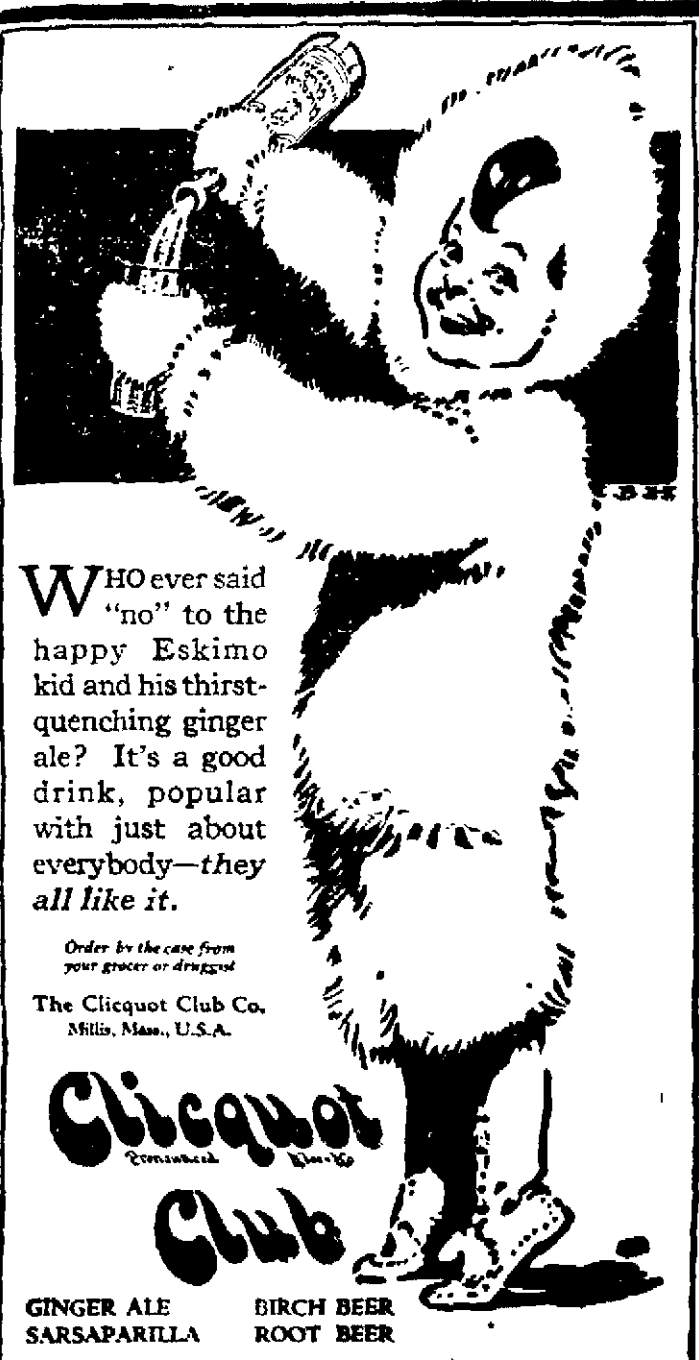

(The Veteran Motorist.)

Says the Veteran Motorist:

I WISH I could paint some big signs along every motor highway and byway. They would all be alike—just five words. But I'm convinced that those five words would save many a mishap and many a doctor's bill. Here they are: LOOK WELL TO YOUR BRAKES.

"The least every motorist can do, for his own protection and the safety of others, is to be absolutely sure that the brakes are 100% O. K. Many a chap has started out for a spin and come back via the tow-line, sadder and wiser, because his brakes 'didn't work.'

"He thought they were good enough. But when a real test came on a steep hill, with a blind cross-road at the bottom, they didn't measure up. And it happens every day—to somebody. Look well to your brakes!"

MEXICAN TREATY
SURE THIS TIME

Many Refrains That Country Is Ready to Guarantee Property Rights.

Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, Aug. 15.—A treaty of commerce and consular rights between the United States and Mexico as the final step in the international negotiations leading to the political recognition of the Obregon government, it was learned here to-day.

Official announcement of recognition will be made by the state department as soon as the treaty has been approved by Secretary Hughes. This may take place before the end of the week.

The negotiations which were carried on in Mexico City between Charles Roscher Warren and John Charles Payne, the American commissioner, and representatives of the Mexican government, were entirely successful, according to administrative officials and the treaty which has been drafted has settled the outstanding differences between the two governments.

The treaty is based chiefly on the acceptance by Mexico of the program laid down by Secretary of State Hughes, providing for alien property rights against confiscation. It is understood that Obregon has finally accepted the terms laid down by Secretary Hughes.

Although the Mexican treaty will have to be ratified by the United States senate, its acceptance by President Coolidge alone is said to be all that is necessary to win recognition for the Obregon government.

The form of recognition probably will be made known to the world in a proclamation signed by both President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes.

"TUT TUT" SHOW
HERE SATURDAY

James McCormick, who has sung the principal roles in a great number of musical comedy successes, has been cast for one of the very delightful parts in "Tut Tut," the new musical comedy being staged by the Tremac Productions Corporation and which comes to the Kingston Opera House, Saturday afternoon and night.

Mr. McCormick has played constantly in principal roles both in America and Europe for the last four seasons and has an enviable record of unbroken successes to his credit. His voice has both volume and tone while his ability as an actor has been long conceded.

CURRENT OFFERINGS
AT THE THEATRES

"The Beautiful and Damned," starring Marie Prevost, closes at Keene's tonight—a smashing story of the great white wealth glittering with lavish splendor highly praised by those who have seen it. Starting tomorrow for three days is Marshall Bellan's tale of exciting thrills, "The Strangers Banquet." This production boasts of twenty-three popular stars.

Low Tandler and Benny Leonard will stage their world's championship fight for the Kingston sport lovers at the Kingston Opera House tonight, Thursday and Friday. These pictures show many slow motion picture scenes of the big bout in which every blow is shown in close-up.

Thomas Meighan is the man in "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow," a Paramount picture which is the offering at the Auditorium today. The women in the story include Leatrice Joy, Eva Novak and June Elbridge. The picture is said to be at once thrilling, dramatic and beautiful.

Thought for the Day. The man who gets angry when you want to investigate his credit usually doesn't much credit to investigate.

Fruits.

Apples—Receipts of basket and barrel apples from the Hudson River Valley were extremely limited. However, Jersey offerings were fairly liberal; demand active for fancy, large red fruit but very light for green varieties; market slightly stronger for red but dull for green fruit. Hudson River Valley, all sections, Duchess, per bushel hamper, best, $1.25-$1.50, fancy large $1.75, poor to ordinary 50c-$1; Williams Red $1.25-$2, Gravenstein $1.25-$1.50; per double headed barrel "A" grade 2 1/2 inch, Duchess, best, $4.50-$5.00, fancy large, few small sales $5.50-$6.00, ordinary $3.50-$4.00.

Cherries—Supplies of basket cherries were fairly liberal from Western New York points, but Hudson River offerings were comparatively light; demand moderately active for fancy, large fruit in sound condition; market steady. Per 4-quart basket; English Morello, Hudson River, best, mostly 85-90c, few sales $1.00, ordinary 80c; Western New York, all sections best 90c-$1.00, fancy $1.05, ordinary and wasty 50-75c.

Peaches—A few small scatterings of early variety peaches were received from the Hudson River Valley; demand extremely light due to the small size of fruit. Hudson River Valley, various early varieties, per 14 and 16 quart basket, mostly 35-60c; 6 till carriers 75c-$1.00, few sales $1.25.

Pears—Receipts of barreled and basket Clapp Favorite pears from the Hudson River Valley were more plentiful; demand moderate; market steady especially for fancy. Hudson River Valley, all sections, per bushel basket; Clapp Favorite best $2.25-$2.50, fancy large few sales $2.75-$3.00, ordinary $2.00; small $1.50-$1.75, per double headed barrel, Clapp Favorite, best, $6.50-$7.00, fancy large $7.25 to $7.50, few small sales as high as $8.00, ordinary and small $5.50-$6.00.

Plums—Supplies were exceedingly light from the Hudson River Valley, practically no demand because of the small size and irregular quality of offerings; market very dull. Hudson River Valley, all sections, various varieties, per quart 4-5c, per 4-quart basket, Damson 40-50c, Red, yellow and blue varieties 15-25c; few sales 20-25c.

Cauliflower—Hudson River receipts were more liberal but offerings continued to show very irregular quality and condition; demand rather limited; market generally dull except for fancy, large well headed stock. Per crate, Hudson River all sections, various varieties best $4.00-$4.50, fancy $5.00, ordinary $3.00-$3.50; small and poor $1.50-$2.50.

Cucumbers—Supplies were light from all up-state sections; demand fairly active for fancy market slightly stronger. Per bushel basket, various varieties, Oswego county, best, $2.00-$2.25, fancy $2.50, ordinary and large $1.50-$1.75; Pickles, per bushel basket, best, $2.50-$3.00.

Lettuce—Receipts from all up-state and nearby sections were light; most offerings were leafy and burnt; market strong with demand active, particularly for fancy, clean well headed stock; prices advanced. Per crate, "Big Boston" variety, all sections, Oswego and Fulton, best, $1.25-$1.50, fancy $1.62 1/2-$1.75, fair $1.00, poor to ordinary 50-75c; Western New York all sections, best, $1.00-$1.50, fancy $1.75; poor to ordinary 50-75c; Oswego county, best, $1.00-$1.25.

Onions—Receipts from Oswego county were comparatively light; demand very limited for red but more active for yellows especially fancy, large stock. FOR PURE MILK.

During the last session of the Legislature Senator Nathan Straus and other Democratic representatives of Governor Smith spent time and oratory trying to demolish the department of farms and markets and to set up in its place an institution under Democratic control. Republican assemblymen, however, killed legislation which would have accomplished the results desired by Senator Straus and his collaborators. Republicans stood for a hands-off policy in this department, one responsibility of which is the protection of the milk supply of the state, not overlooking other problems which will not brook interference which experience has shown. Many influences have upon agriculture.

The people of the state spend $200,000,000 annually for milk, and it is universally agreed that no effort would be spared to protect from adulteration and uncleanliness the nourishing and necessary food. While there has been much discussion as to milk, the department has come steadily forward ensuring that which is clean and wholesome. This means not only a campaign against tuberculosis in cattle, but a thorough service of inspection. It is plain to be seen that any breaking down of the control of the department, as now constituted, by a board of competent agricultural and business men, would mean easily interference with this imperative supervision.

It may be well to turn back to a period when there was little, if any, inspection of milk, a time when there was no department. In 1883 a legislative committee was appointed to investigate the adulteration of milk in New York city. This committee submitted a report showing that of 500,000 quarts of milk sold in New York city, nearly 200,000 quarts were either water or skim milk added to the pure milk, and the committee in its report stated that this condition entailed "the most alarming consequences to the health and lives of young children and to the comfort and well-being of the whole community."

This committee introduced legislation which resulted in New York state being able to boast the best milk supply in the world. Last year the department, which was protected against the raids of Tammany spoilsmen, inspected 100,000 lots of milk and a report shows that the adulteration was less than one-half of one per cent. Now milk is produced and handled under sanitary conditions as a positive result of this work. There is no doubt whatever that opinion generally will uphold the Republicans who insisted that this and the other important work of the department of agriculture should go forward without disturbance which the Democrats planned and which would have spelled chaos in this organization so close to the health of the people of New York state.

EDUCATION AND THE FARM.

Every American commonwealth faces the problem of educating young people "for instead of away from the farm"—a subject especially discussed in the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer edited by ex-Secretary Joseph Daniels, in a special educational number with a 40-page supplement devoted mainly to the schools of the State. One contributor to the supplement, though in entire sympathy with the movement to improve the schools, pointedly asks whether education is not saving of the limb that is sitting on, and holds that "the better a fellow is educated, the bigger the fellow he desires to inhabit, and the more he spurns the lap of his childhood. The difficulty thus suggested is more serious than ever in these times, but it is not to be removed by keeping in ignorance the young people on the farms, and obviously it is much better met by making them intelligently interested in their work.

This latter method is urged by several contributors, in whose articles it is shown that the education which makes more efficient farmers pays for itself many fold, and that there is no reason why it should breed a distaste for farm life. The pining for the wealth of entertainment in the city is less the result of increased intelligence than the lack of amusements in rural neighborhood. Nothing makes for a live community, the education and mental activities. These tend to create entertainment and where they are present, more interesting and more active neighborhood life is possible, even in the remotest districts. Educating young farmers tends to pay not only in increased efficiency but in increased ability to make life enjoyable.

Answers to Previous Questions.
 1. Can milk be raised for fur?
 Yes, it has been done, but is more trouble than raising say skunk. Minks do not like living in colonies and need a big runway. They take wholly flesh food, which should be fresh, and costs more than the mixed diet skunks thrive on. Mink stock sells very high, but some ranchers have captured young minks in the wild, and from them gradually raised their own half-tamed stock.

Do birds all over the country have the same migrations spring and fall?
 No, not invariably. It is noticed that in Rocky Mountain and Sierra regions, where gradations of climate and moisture exist according to altitude, many birds instead of flying to distant points, make what is called a "vertical" or up-and-down migration. In this way they find the climate and food supply suited to their needs at given times, and do not have to seek them by travel. There is much greater variety of temperature, moisture, plant and insect life, forest, soil, nesting-sites, in a country raised through with mountains than in say the tremendous plains of our middle section, or the only slightly mountainous Atlantic coast.

What was manna that fed the children of Israel on their travels?
 Some students think it was a sort of honey dew, exuded by an aphid, which infests the tamarisk. Whether this is true we cannot say, but it is a fact that dried honey dew is eaten by man in some parts of the world. Manna was evidently some sort of natural product peculiar to the situation where found.

SPECIALIZE, SAYS HAMILTON

Tells at Orange Fair of Well Educated Farmers Whose Incomes Are 60 Per Cent Greater Than Those of District School Graduates.

Middletown, Aug. 15.—Specialized education for the farmers as means of bettering agricultural conditions generally was suggested today by Secretary of State James A. Hamilton speaking to the crowds at the Orange County Fair in this city. Secretary Hamilton motored here from Albany and was greeted by former Mayor R. M. Cox and entertained at luncheon. Secretary Hamilton left later in the day for Whitney's Point to speak at a county fair there.
 "That it pays for farm boys to specialize in order that they may be better trained for scientific farming is shown by records at Albany," Secretary Hamilton said. "In Schoharie county the farmer who possessed more than a common school education earned an average income 60 per cent greater than farmers who had gone no further than the district school. In Otsego county in 1915, the difference was 82 per cent. It takes a very short time to pay for additional education according to these figures, and the increased earning power continues throughout life."

INVESTIGATES EXPLOSION; FINDS WIFE A SUICIDE.

Mrs. Alfred Harcourt Turned on Gas—Had Been Ill.

An explosion from escaping gas in the kitchen of the home of Alfred Harcourt, a publisher, of 117 Lorrain avenue, Mount Vernon, early Tuesday led to the discovery by Harcourt that his wife had just committed suicide. He found her lying dead on the kitchen floor after the explosion. According to the Health Commissioner, Dr. William Parry, Mrs. Harcourt was already dead from gas poisoning before the explosion took place. The police say that Mrs. Harcourt, who was to have gone to a sanatorium with a nervous ailment, Tuesday turned on the gas herself and lay down on the floor to await death.

The explosion occurred some time later. After gas had been filling the room it was ignited by the pilot flame, which burns constantly on the upper part of the range, thus causing the explosion. It pushed back the rear wall of the house five inches on the foundation and was felt in houses several blocks around.

Mrs. Harcourt's body was found by Mr. Harcourt and his son. When they reached the kitchen they likewise found that curtains and clothes hanging there were ablaze. After laboring valiantly they succeeded in quelling the fire, and then called for the police. The dead woman was forty-two years old. The home is located in the Oakwood section. Mr. Harcourt is a member of the firm of Harcourt, Brace & Company, 333 Madison avenue, New York.

Mr. Harcourt is a former resident of Ulster county, and is a brother of Alden J. Harcourt, formerly of Kingston, who practiced law here.

Po'keepsie Aldermen Adopt Zoning.

Poughkeepsie will follow Newburgh in having city officials and city departments prepare a city zoning ordinance. It was decided by the Bridge City common council Monday evening. The report of the committee submitted to the council said that the system working since May, 1923, in Newburgh, was very successful and they recommended the adoption of a similar ordinance.

NEW DECISION
AIDSENFORCEMENT

Prohibition Officials—Elting
Awaits Copy—Canfield Says En-
right's Closing Order Will Assist Greatly in New York.

Prohibition officials in New York
called the decision of Judge Joseph Woodrough, in regard to the seizure of the British rum-runner, Marion Mosher, on June 27, as highly important from the standpoint of a general enforcement of the Volstead act. It brought up again the possibility of the United States supreme court ruling on the constitutionality of the century old "prohibitory statute" which was designed primarily at merchandise smugglers.
The "prohibitory statute" had been practically a dead law until the prohibition act went into effect. The right of the United States to invoke this law, which placed again in the law last year, gave the customs department jurisdiction to the seizure of foreign nations.

As soon as he learned of Judge
Woodrough's decision Philip Elting, collector of the port of New York,
went into a lengthy conference with Edward Barnes, assistant solicitor of the legal division, at which the ruling was discussed. Mr. Barnes said that as soon as the collector had been furnished with a copy of the decision coast guards would be issued instructions as to the scope within which they might act in seizing rum-runners lying off the three-mile limit.

Palmer Canfield, federal prohibition director, today described Prohibition Commissioner Enright's order, directing that all resorts where liquor was sold be closed by November 1, as "another step in the ascending stairs of prohibition in New York city."

"It was decided several months ago," said Director Canfield, "that the saloons in New York city must go by November 1 next. A plan of campaign was initiated in the office of Colonel William Hayward, United States Attorney, in May, and it is being carried out and is being put into execution under the immediate direction and supervision of his assistant, Major John Holley Clarke, and Sanford H. Cohen, his special assistant, with the cooperation of this department and with the assistance of the police department."

"The details of this crusade cannot be divulged at this time, but it is an effective plan to rid the city of New York of saloons and speak-easies where intoxicating liquors of the poorest and most unwholesome quality are now being sold."

"There is not a drop of pure straight whiskey sold in a single one of such places today. All places of such character constitute a real menace to the health and welfare of the community."

"I assume that the order of Commissioner Enright is in furtherance of such a campaign as all ultimate and final action must be taken in the United States courts, under the direction of the United States Attorney. However, the police department can render invaluable aid by obtaining information about such places and furnishing the same to

United States Attorneys which is part of the plan now in operation.
Assistant United States Attorneys
Clarke and Cohen have been working earnestly and consistently for weeks in this matter."

While Mr. Canfield would not distinguish the nature of his campaign, it was understood that he contemplates the greater use of injunction and

CONNELLY CLEANS
UP MILK DEPOTS

With Dr. Clark He Secures Satisfactory Sanitary Conditions at Places
Where They Were Lacking—Ban
Still on Thompson Farm Milk—
Other Board of Health Matters.

Dr. Daniel Connelly, the recently appointed health officer, made a lengthy report as to visitations to a number of places where milk is kept,
and of investigation of a number of complaints with Sanitary and Food Inspector Dr. Clark, to the members of the Board of Health at the regular monthly meeting held Tuesday evening. The report was so interesting to the members that Dr. Norwood and Dr. Mary Gage Day commended the new health officer on his good work, in which all acquiesced.
The monthly reports of the various officers were passed out to members.
Mayor Crane presided, and those present were Commissioners Kaufman, McBride, Norwood, Dr. Gage
Day and Hubne, Secretary Miss
Nolan, City Nurse Mrs. O'Neil, Food
Inspector Clark, Biologist B. Eleanor
Easton and Health Officer Dr. Daniel Connelly.

The matter of a bill for $100 of Mrs. Christina Harbeck for service as nurse during smallpox cases, was referred to the health officer to investigate and report as to matter.

Health Officer Connelly told of investigating conditions at Thompson farm near St. Remy from which milk had been used by a family where there was a typhoid fever case. He said Dr. Clarke had found conditions very unsanitary there, and had the water on the place tested by the state and it was found bad. The milk was not handled in a sanitary manner. Report had been that a woman on the farm had symptoms of tuberculosis but examination at clinic of woman failed to prove it.
On motion of Dr. Day, the ban on bringing of milk from the farm to this city was ordered continued by Health Officer Connelly until the place is put into a sanitary condition.

Conditions that had been found had on a place on the Boulevard
where Barton gets milk were ordered abolished and sanitary improvements made which had been done as second visit showed. New screens and windows had been ordered in the milk depot of Adin
where 600 quarts were handled daily and the direction carried out. A milk house and a cooler had been ordered on the Black farm, and a second visit showed improvements made. Screens were ordered placed in windows of milk house at Cassidy's and floor cleaned. A visit to the Beatty farm showed conditions of the best. There were fifty cows in fine condition and everything fine and clean; the milk cans were cleaned with steam. The milk depot of Del Rio, formerly of A. H.
Cook, on Shufeldt street, was found sanitary and in excellent condition.

A complaint about sanitary conditions at tenement house of Miss Wade at East Union and Ann streets was investigated and an overflowing privy vault was found. There were a number of families living in the house and Night Scavenger Johnson had been sent to clean up the place which he did. Conditions were very bad and a sewer connection should be made. The matter was referred to the sanitary committee and health officer.

Investigation of a complaint about an outside closet at 211 Foxhall avenue showed conditions not as bad as the complainant had stated. Closet was some distance from house and vault did not contain much matter.

Petition as to constructing a sewer in Hudson street was talked of and Mayor Crane said it would cost an enormous sum to build a sewer to Ravine street, and the best remedy
would be to run sewer to Rondout creek which could not be done unless state board of health approved plans
after an investigation as to conditions.

Health Officer Connelly stated that a permit had been requested to conduct a children's home or school in the Wilbur section of the city, in the former Sweeney property. It is known as the Pensionate. Investigation by the health officer showed the place in excellent condition, clean, electric lights, heat, a nurse, running water, large playgrounds. There were twelve or fifteen children in the school or home all well dressed and apparently happy, being under watchful care of a nurse. The rooms were of good size with iron cots.

Dr. Norwood spoke of the untiring work done by Dr. Laidlaw during the smallpox cases here and suggested he be remunerated for his services. It was the opinion of the members that as Dr. Laidlaw was under pay by the state the state board of health would not allow him to accept extra remuneration. A motion by Dr. Norwood, that the secretary communicate with the state board as to whether Dr. Laidlaw would be allowed to accept remuneration for his services, was adopted.

On motion of Dr. Norwood Health Officer Connelly was appointed assistant registrar of vital statistics.
The health officer stated that Dr.
Laidlaw had called his attention to the high child mortality as shown by the vital statistics.

Dr. Norwood said that a good many diseases were not reported by physicians to the health officer as the law directs, and suggested that the health officer compile a list of all the diseases which must be reported and send such list to each physician with emphatic instructions to comply with the law promptly so cases could be quarantined at once. Adopted.
The meeting then adjourned.

Inquiry among Single-Six owners will reveal to you that many of them expect to drive their cars for five years and more. Thus they are avoiding the loss always involved in frequent changes.

This is one of the reasons why the conviction is growing that ownership of a Packard is downright economy. This conviction is fortified by the surprisingly low cost of operation and maintenance.

It is probably a reasonable assertion that nowhere can you

BANK STOCK TAX REFUND PLANNED

At the meeting of representatives of national and state banks of Ulster county, with representative of the city of Kingston, and the towns and villages in bank tax districts, held in the supervisors' room in the court house, Tuesday, County Attorney John W. Eckert explained the decision of the United States Court which declared the one per cent tax on bank shares and undivided profits illegal, and of the proposal of the banks to accept 50 per cent of the amount due for national banks tax paid for 1920, 1921 and 1922, and bank tax paid for 1920 and 1921 due state banks.

It was decided to leave the refunding of the bank tax moneys to the towns of Lloyd, Marlborough, New Paltz, Saugerties, Shawangunk and Wawarsing, and the city of Kingston, settlement to be made in whatever manner arranged with the banks in each town and in this city to the satisfaction of both parties.

County Attorney Eckert and Clerk Henry R. DeWitt of the board of supervisors will compile for the various interests in the bank tax districts the amounts distributed during the years and which will have to be refunded to the banks.

Her rightful pride in their clean linen

SUNDAY MORNING!

What a brightness and happiness it means in the American home!

How fitly the day is honored by fresh garments and clean linen.

Then, if ever, wives and mothers take rightful pride in the spotless appearance of their husbands and sons—their shirts, collars, cuffs, and handkerchiefs fairly sparkling with whiteness.

These things, once so hard to wash, are now easily kept clean. Rinso, the new kind of soap, gently loosens all the dirt. Soaks the dirt right out.

You put your clothes to soak in the Rinso suds—soak an hour, two hours, over night, if you wish, and then just rinse.

Hold them up to the light and see how white and clean. Only the very dirtiest spots where dirt has been ground in need rubbing. And these you rub but lightly. Sprinkle on a little dry Rinso. The stubborn spots yield at once.

If you boil your white cottons, there is nothing so good as Rinso. Just pour enough into your boiler to get the suds you like. It will dissolve instantly in the boiling water.

For the final washing, whether in set tubs or in a washing machine, Rinso makes the work easier, quicker—your clothes whiter. You need no soap powder—no other soap with Rinso.

Rinso is made by the largest soap-makers in the world—the makers of Lux. For the family wash Rinso is as wonderful as Lux is for fine things.

Get Rinso today. Sold at all grocery and department stores. Comes in two sizes—regular size and the big new package. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Performance Superiority now officially attested

BY a spectacular exhibition on the test road up Mt. Diablo, the new Chandler has now established officially and permanently the performance superiority of the Pikes Peak Motor Towering peak of the California coast ranges, Mt. Diablo is scaled by a road so tortuously steep that no stock car is ever expected to reach its summit in high gear.

Of its difficulties of grade are based two of the most coveted automobile trophies of the Pacific Coast: the Oakland Tribune Trophy which is offered to the motor car reaching the highest point in high gear; and the Alexander Challenge Cup for sixes exclusively.

Now—for the first time since they were offered—a six cylinder car is in possession of both cups!

For a stock Chandler, with standard gear ratio, recently captured not only the Alexander Cup with consummate ease; but in a magnificent sweep of smooth, unlabored power passed the highest point previously reached by any motor car in high gear!

No other six in the Chandler class offers an equally impressive combination of masterly performance, beauty, comfort, economy and long life. Drive it yourself—and see.

CODE AT PENN STATE COLLEGE

The other day a dog-eared thesis was identified by a professor in a western university as one that had made a successful debut as "original work" at six other institutions of learning. It is not uncommon for a teacher to be warned to be on the lookout for themes that have been presented to his predecessor. A bright scholar is often popular because he keeps busy preparing papers for football brothers who are too engrossed to prepare their own. There is a tradition in a New England college that its bulletin board once bore the announcement: "Esays Tailored or Ready-made. For Sale or to Let."

Such willingness to wear the tax without possessing the goods has become commonplace in college life. It has begun to arouse agitation among students themselves. Recognition is coming that such dealing in stolen goods is unfair, both to the man who earns what he gets and to him who does not, who is thus permitting himself to be robbed of the chance to do any original thinking.

A refreshing movement is now under way at Penn State College to outlaw all forms of dishonesty in the classroom and on the campus. It originated not in the faculty nor in the Y. M. C. A., but in the Student Council, the most representative body in the institution. It is a frank endeavor to restore to the non-athletic life of the college the same high standard of sportsmanship which in athletics has long made this institution famous. Committees from the council visited other colleges, east, north, south and west, and questionnaires were sent out elsewhere, to discover what was the most approved practice in American colleges and universities. The best ideal was found at West Point.

Upon their return the committee made their report, and recommended formulating a code of honor, which should become the Penn State standard. In order that it might not be confounded with any so-called "honor systems," none of which had been popular at this school on the Nittany, it was thought best to present the proposed code to every fraternity and other campus organization and to the unorganized men, and thus by universal consent. "No agreement which," as one of the committee said, "will meet the hearty approval of every gentleman on the campus." The matter is still pending, but the consensus seems to be that the code, in brief, will be, that "No liar, cheat or thief can stay at Penn State."

The idea of the boys is that no "system" of enforcement will be needed, but that, as at West Point, if a fellow ever breaks the unwritten code, he will notice that the atmosphere of the Nittany neighborhood is not wholesome, and he will go home for his health.

STATE INSTITUTION COWS TWO-THIRDS FREE OF T. B.

Announcement is made by Commissioner of Farms and Markets Berne A. Pyke that the examination of cattle on the farms of the state institutions has been completed covering more than 3,000 animals, and shows that two-thirds of the cattle are free from evidence of tuberculosis. In carrying out the policy of safeguarding the milk supply for the inmates of state institutions, Commissioner Pyke has directed an annual examination of cattle on state institution farms and through the administration of the tuberculosis test the herds are rapidly being cleared of tuberculous animals.

WHAT CONSTITUTES HOUSE SHORTAGE

Should Be 10 Per Cent Surplus of Apartments Over Families, Says Specialist.

If you ask the average man on the street "What constitutes a normal housing supply?"—after a little thought he will very likely tell you—"One dwelling or one apartment available for each family in the community."

In the housing surveys made recently for the American Bond & Mortgage Company, by Harold Alwert, consulting engineer, he points out that "one house or apartment available for each family" is a sub-normal condition, and creates a building owners' market, and thus unnecessarily high rentals.

This point is easily illustrated if you draw a parallel with a hat store. Suppose tomorrow morning you walk into your hat store to buy a hat and as you go into the store, the clerk says, "Here is your hat"—your response will undoubtedly be, "But, I have not picked out my hat yet." Suppose then, the clerk said to you, "But there are one hundred people coming into this store today to buy hats, and we have just one hundred hats to sell. Therefore, I am offering you your hat."

The illustration is homely, but it serves to show that this kind of a situation does not create a normal buyers and sellers market and that, after all, what should be sought in the housing situation.

The man who rents a house should always have an opportunity for choosing the kind of house which will fit his needs.

Probably there is no problem in the country which is absorbing more attention today than that of housing, and as the situation in the great many cities and towns of the United States is parallel, let us take for example, a specific city, say, Chicago, and make that one, the basis of our discussion.

Until a summary of the housing survey also referred to was published recently in the book, "A Study of Building Costs and Rental Returns," issued by the American Bond and Mortgage Company, Inc., the general belief was that a housing shortage had existed in Chicago, for example, for a number of years. Yet this survey shows that there has never been a time in the past 19 years when there were more families in Chicago than there were houses or apartments available for occupancy.

In 1916, there was a surplus of over 24,000 and the nearest approach to a deficit occurred in 1921 when the surplus was reduced to 1,250. Such a small surplus, however, constitutes an actual shortage or deficit when viewed from the standpoint of what constitutes a normal supply.

The question here naturally arises: What constitutes a normal housing supply?

From the building owners' standpoint, a well balanced normal supply of housing for any community may be said to exist when there are just enough apartments and dwellings of the sizes, kinds, and locations desired, so that those offered for rent will command rentals sufficient to pay all proper fixed and operating expense including depreciation, plus a profit or interest return on the entire investment commensurate with the hazard or such investment. The minimum net return under present conditions would be 2 1/2 per cent. In developed, zoned, and stabilized location.

From the renter's or tenant's standpoint, a normal supply exists when there is a sufficient number of apartments or dwellings to permit of a choice in regard to size, kind, and location at a price no greater than will return to the owner a sum sufficient to maintain the integrity of his investment and pay a reasonable profit or interest on the investment.

One other factor must be included in the equation, namely, if a tenant selects a location in a fast growing community or fast growing section of a community where property values are increasing, he must expect rental increases, from time to time, proportionate to increased property values.

In Chicago with the present population, a surplus of 29,000 apartments constitutes a 5 1/2 per cent surplus or one spare apartment for every 20 families to choose from. If you compare this with the surplus you require when buying furniture, clothing, automobiles, or other commodities, you would say one spare apartment for every 20 families for choice of size, location and price is no choice at all.

Having in mind the greatest good for the greatest number, and keeping in mind also the future growth of a community, rentals should be based, not on 100 per cent occupancy but about 80 per cent. In other words, a surplus of about 10 per cent of each kind, size and price of apartments and dwellings should be maintained to create a reasonable balance or satisfactory relation between landlord and tenant.

Under such conditions, capital for real estate investments will be available at reasonable rates; tenants will have a reasonable range of choice at reasonable rentals; conditions will be attractive to outsiders, seeking permanent locations; and the community will prosper.

It would therefore appear that a surplus of 5 per cent in any given class of apartments or dwellings is only enough to prevent rentals from increasing. With from 5 to about 10 per cent surplus, rentals will remain stationary, but selection is increased and concessions regarding decorating, etc., will be more liberal. When the surplus goes over 10 per cent, rentals will begin to drop, and when the surplus is in excess of 12 per cent, ownership of rental property, in all but exceptional locations, will be unprofitable.

Using Chicago again as an illustration; that city in which 580,000 families live, at the present time has a surplus of 12,533 apartments, thus requiring the additional construction of 16,487 in order to have the needed surplus of 5 per cent, or 29,000 spare apartments.

VETERANS' VOCATIONAL SCHOOL NEEDS BOOKS

The Veterans' Bureau has opened a vocational school for service men at Goshen. The American Legion Auxiliary has received a letter from Mrs. E. B. Garrison, chairman of that district, asking that we make public the request by the men there for books. They spoke especially of books by James Oliver Curwood, and particularly men's books. Will the generous people of Kingston, who have any such books, kindly leave them at McBride's drug store on Wall street, or call Mrs. Stanley Matthews at 1715-M, and they will be called for.

These veterans are wounded men who are being fitted for some trade for their life's work; they have their evenings for reading or recreation. I hurt his leg while playing ball on Sunday.

The American Legion Auxiliary Sunday will appreciate the generosity of Kingston people, in giving these books. The time limit for giving these books is up to and including August 24th.

HARRIET S. CHIDSEY,
Publicity Committee.

TILLSON. Aug. 14.—The ladies of the Reformed Church will hold their annual fair on the church grounds the afternoon and evening of August 24. Supper will be served at six o'clock, and refreshments of all kinds, including ice cream, home-made candy, soft drinks, cigars, cake, also fancy as well as useful things for all who would like to help a good cause. Everyone welcome.

CONIFEROUS TREES FROM NEW ENGLAND BARREN

Shipment of coniferous trees carrying fertile egg masses and live caterpillars of the gipsy moth into this state from the New England states has resulted in the issuance of an order by Commissioner of Farms and Markets Berne A. Pyke, placing a quarantine against coniferous trees from the New England states.

Commissioner Pyke's order directs that all shipments of such coniferous trees into the state from any of the New England states shall be returned to the shipper except when they are found to be infested by egg masses and caterpillars of the gipsy moth and such shipments shall be burned so as to destroy caterpillars and eggs.
